AN ERRATIC ROCKETT.
Wanted to Go Up to See the President—Is Arrested.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A crank appeared at the White House early today and demanded to see President McKinley. He said the President had not treated him right. He tried to go upstairs by the elevator, but was taken in charge by officials. He broke away from them and tried to hide behind the conservatory, and was taken to the Police Station.
At police headquarters the man said
he was Henry Rockett of No. 1241
Fourth Street, Southwest. There is no such name and address in the city.

HOPE ETERNAL

Still Springs Up in the Durrant Breast.

He Thinks All Resources Have not Been Exhausted.

Mention of His Mother Brings
Tears to His Eyes.

Recounts the Actions of the Press.
Says He Will Die Bravely, but His Execution Would Be a Terrible Mistake.

[BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.]
SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Nov. 9.—[Special Dispatch.] Today the Chronicle correspondent obtained the first authentic interview with the man who has been given to anyone in months. The young murderer has steadily refused to talk with newspaper men, but he relaxed his rule today. He has been represented as broken under the recent news that his case was well nigh hopeless, but he is still hopeful and declares that if he must die, he will do so bravely. And the men around him, his guards and custodians, say he will hope on to the end, and then go calmly to the grim machine which is to kill him. They will take the precautions with him, but they do not fear an attempt to defeat the end that the law has chosen or an acknowledgment of guilt.
Today he granted an interview in Capt. Edgar's office. Once only during the talk that lasted for half an hour did he show a sign of emotion.
It was at the mention of the name of his mother. Then tears welled up into his eyes, and his voice grew husky.
He said: "I am feeling well, and never enjoyed better health in my life. The decision of the Supreme Court makes the situation somewhat gloomy, but I am still hopeful. I do not think every resource has been exhausted, but that
is a matter in the hands of my lawyers.
I do not know what the outcome will
be, but I have every hope, and I do
not think such a crime as the execution of an innocent man could be committed. If they execute me, a terrible mistake will be made."
"I have stood up under this terrible strain through the chase of my mother and friends, the knowledge of my innocence and the teachings of God. And my mother, she is a noble woman. I am still hopeful. I do not think every
resource has been exhausted, but that
is a matter in the hands of my lawyers.
I do not know what the outcome will
be, but I have every hope, and I do
not think such a crime as the execution of an innocent man could be committed. If they execute me, a terrible
mistake will be made."

"The public references to her," he went on, "have hurt me more than anything else. They have cut me the keenest of all. It is worse than injustice to me. I have not been fairly treated by the press and public. Convicted on evidence that was purely circumstantial, even in the trial, the fair has been twisted and distorted against me. I have been misquoted when I talked, and quoted when I did not talk. I feel aggrieved toward the press, for I do not believe I would have been convicted but for the manner in which the public was misinformed."

DURRANT'S LAST APPEAL.
His Attorney Argues Against His Confinement at San Quentin.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—Before the Supreme Court today was argued the last appeal standing in the way of the rescinding of Theodore Durrant for the murder of Blanche Lamont. The appeal was one brought by Durrant's attorneys after the second sentence passed on him, and was based on the claim that additional punishment was being inflicted upon him by the court in ordering him closely confined in San Quentin prison pending execution, in the warden having cropped his hair
short and having garbed him in prison stripes. Louis P. Boardman appearing for Durrant, and C. N. Post for the Attorney-General's office.
It is expected that a decision will be arrived at noon after the receipt of the remittitur in the case of the appeal sent yesterday by the Supreme Court of the United States.

SENTENCED TODAY.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Dist.
Atty. Barnes appeared before Judge Bahr today and informed the court that he had received official notice from the Supreme Court of the United States that they had affirmed the decree of the United States Circuit Court in the Durrant case. Judge Bahr thereupon issued an order directing that Theodore Durrant be brought from San Quentin penitentiary tomorrow in order that a new date be set for the carrying out of the sentence already imposed upon the condemned murderer.
It was currently rumored that Friday next may be selected as the date for the execution of Durrant, it being generally understood that the law requiring that five days' notice be given the defendant does not apply in this instance.

HASTENING THE MANDATE.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The State authorities of California have asked the Department of Justice to hasten the mandate from the United States Supreme Court in the Durrant murder case, but the matter is one with which the department is not concerned.
Thirty days are always taken in the issuing of mandates, unless the court orders that they shall be expedited, which is only done upon motion.

DAY OF EXECUTION.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Nov. 9.— Theodore Durrant learned today from his mother that Superior Judge Bahr
of San Francisco had made an order for his resentence on tomorrow. It has been a day of suppressed excitement here. Warden Hale returned from the East and resumed his duties at noon. Chief Jailor Sattler of San Francisco served orders from Judge Bahr on the warden early this afternoon, commanding him to produce the prisoner in court at the resentence.

Durrant was informed of the service of the order on them until his mother called on him. She was permitted to be the first to give the news to her son. The interview took place in Capt. Edgar's office. Durrant embraced his mother, and they conversed
in low tones for a long time.
Chief Jailor Sattler is at the prison today in readiness to take Durrant to San Francisco early tomorrow morning. It is stated that the doomed youth reiterates that he places his faith in God and has no fear of death.

SCOPE HAS BROADENED.

THE AMERICAN BRITISH-CANADIAN CONFERENCE ALL-EMBRACING.

After the Bering Sea Troubles Have Been Cleared Over Commercial
Reciprocity and Other Bones of Contention Will Be Brought Out.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Gen. Foster and Sir Julian Pauncefote conferred today as to the arrangements for the meeting of British, Canadian and American representatives relative to the Bering Sea. A general understanding was reached that the arrival today of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, and party would permit the meeting to be given to an exchange of views between the Canadians and British.

The British Ambassador will accompany the Premier to the White House tomorrow morning and introduce him to the President. This will be a call of courtesy, however, and it is not expected that any of the pending questions will be referred to the British embassy has extended an invitation to Sir Wilfrid Laurier to be a guest during his stay here, but he has determined to leave for London tomorrow morning. The British Ambassador, Sir H. Curzon, is expected to arrive tomorrow, where headquarters have been engaged.

It is now definitely settled that the coming meeting will take a much broader scope than was first anticipated. At the onset there will be a comparison of notes between the seal experts, Mr. Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, and party would permit the meeting to be given to an exchange of views between the Canadians and British.

It is said the relations existing between Great Britain and Canada make it impossible to discuss the question of reciprocity in a straightforward manner. The Canadian Premier and Sir Louis Davies, the Canadian Minister to the United States, are expected to be present in an unofficial capacity, ready to take up the larger phases of the question when the seal experts have concluded their exchange of technical information.

LAURIER'S PARTY.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and party arrived here at 4 o'clock today and took quarters at the Shoreham. The members of the party are: Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, Sir Louis and Lady Davies,
Miss Edith Davies, Prof. J. M. Macoun,
J. R. Benning, R. Boudrea and E. B.
Williams. Sir Wilfrid asked to be excused to all interviews.

After the hearing Prof. Thompson, the British seal expert, called to the President and his associates. The British Ambassador and his staff will leave tomorrow for the White House to meet the Canadian Ambassador and Sir Louis to the White House for a call of courtesy.

BIG REFUNDING MORTGAGE.

Chicago and Northwestern Railroad
People Looking After It.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Executive Committee of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad met in this city today for the purpose of formally executing the refunding mortgage of $165,000,000 against the road. It could not be ascertained whether the definite action will be taken by the Executive Committee.

On the Stock Exchange a bet of $1000
even was offered that the Chicago and Northwestern road would increase its dividend at the next declaration.
The report of the special committee appointed by the directors of the Rock Island and party arrived here today.
The plan will be handed down the latter part of this week or the early part of next week.

A report was current in Wall Street today that the presidents of the anthraxite railroads have taken under consideration a plan to better the condition of the trade. It is likely that a restrictive policy may be adopted.

FRAUDULENT NATURALIZATION.

Three Philadelphia Clerks Examined on a Serious Charge.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—John A.
Merrick, a clerk in United States Commissioner Belford's office at Richmond, Merrick, his father, also a clerk in the same office, and Eugene Lindsey, a clerk in the City Prothonotary's office,
were given a hearing today before United States Commissioner Edmunds, charged with issuing fraudulent naturalization papers, with the result that of the hearing they were each held in $5000 bail. Bail was furnished.

Testimony was produced by United States District Attorney Beck tending to show that the accused men had been guilty of wholesale fraud in the issuance of naturalization papers, extending over a period of three or four years.

President Ashley not ill.
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The report of President Ashley's illness is officially denied. The secretary of the Washington Railway Company says there is no truth in the report.

PLANS AT HAND

Another Step in Free Harbor Progress.

Maj. Davis Has Forwarded the Belated Specifications.

Secretary Alger Has All Data
Needed for Action.

Documents are in Gen. Wilson's Hands and Will Be Submitted to Him Probably Today—He Will Advise.

[BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.]
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—[Special Dispatch.] Today the War Department received from Maj. Davis in San Francisco the belated plans and specifications of San Pedro Harbor which they were submitted to him with the request that they be put in shape for advising. Gen. Wilson, chief of engineers of the army, took charge of the plans as soon as they arrived, but has not yet been able to examine them. Tomorrow, however, he expects to look them over before they are submitted to Secretary Alger.

When I called on Secretary Alger tonight he had not heard of the San Pedro plans had been returned. He inquired eagerly about them, and said that they would doubtless be laid before him tomorrow.
"Will you then advise for bids?" I asked.
"Yes, I probably will," he replied.
"Although I see no money in sight to pay the contractors." PHOCION.

RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

Executive Officers of the Western Lines Hold a Conference.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The executive officers of the Western roads had another conference on the freight rate situation. The practicability of bringing about a restoration of all rates which have been reduced below regular tariff was discussed at considerable length, but in view of the position maintained by the Southwestern roads in regard to rates to and from Gulf ports, the conclusion was reached that nothing could be done at present to adjust matters. The opinion was freely expressed that until some change is effected in the law, as it has been declared to be by the Supreme Court of the United States, there is little probability of rates being maintained on a permanent basis.

The meeting was held at the Hotel
Merrill, and was attended by Gen.
Foster, the Canadian Premier, and party would permit the meeting to be given to an exchange of views between the Canadians and British.

Witness After Witness Produced to Bear Out the Contentions of the Prosecution—The Prisoner's Loose Confessions.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The trial of Martin Thorn for the alleged murder of William Guldensuppe began in earnest this morning. Yesterday the jury was sworn and the trial was opened by the district attorney, William J. Young, who presented the case against the defendant. Thorn, clean-shaven and well-groomed, sat with unmoved countenance as the prosecuting attorney outlined his case. When he had concluded, the taking of testimony began. Twenty witnesses were summoned for examination today, and the district attorney took them one by one, just as the finding of the different portions of the body opened up to the public the history of a terrible crime had been committed.

The first four witnesses were the boys who, while swimming in the East River, had found the upper portion of the severed trunk, and then followed the policemen who were called to the scene of the finding, and then in turn were followed by witnesses who testified to the bringing of that part of the body to the morgue.

The discovery of the lower part of the trunk, from which the legs were severed half an inch from the thighs and knees, was then taken up, and every person who handled it until it was deposited with the morgue-keeper was examined, and each one in turn identified the paper, oil cloth and cheese cloth in which the part was wrapped. The body of the trunk was taken up with the descriptions of those who found and inspected the bundle floating at the Brooklyn navy yard. As in the case of the upper portion, the carrying of these limbs was followed from the navy-yard dock to the morgue at Bellevue hospital.

Then the morgue-keeper was put on the stand. At 4 o'clock all the witnesses who had been brought to court for examination had given their testimony, and at that time the prosecution asked for an adjournment until tomorrow morning. The court granted this request, and the trial will be resumed at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow. It is expected that the greater part of the testimony tomorrow will be that of the four witnesses who produced by the people to prove that parts belonged to the same body, and also, if possible, to prove the cause of death.

THE FIRST WITNESSES.

Lads Who Found the Upper Part of the Body Testify.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Dist. Atty. Young opened the government's case in the Guldensuppe murder trial today, outlining the case made by the prosecution. Mr. Young occupied thirty-five minutes in his opening address. During the entire time Thorn kept his eyes fixed steadily on the prosecutor, but his face did not betray the slightest emotion. After the opening address, the court to exclude all the witnesses from the courtroom with the exception of the medical experts. The court so ordered, and the witnesses were conducted to the rear of the courtroom.

The first witness called was John McGuire, one of the lads who, while bathing in East River, at the foot of Eleventh street, found the upper portion of the body said to be that of Guldensuppe. Young McGuire identified the piece of oilcloth produced in court, also a photograph of the part of the body. These were marked for identification. He was not cross-examined. James McKenna, who was McGuire's companion, followed McGuire in every detail and also identified the oilcloth and photograph. He also was permitted to leave the witness chair without being cross-examined.

The prosecution through several witnesses who had found parts of the body alleged to be Guldensuppe's remains, put in testimony leading up to the corpus delicti. The prosecution Attorney Howe objected that until Guldensuppe's death was proved, the testimony as to finding of parts of remains was incompetent and irrelevant, but his objection was overruled, and successive witnesses testified to the finding of parts of the body and their removal to the morgue. The head was found in the East River. Another he left in the woods, having driven there in company with Mrs. Natch. The head he placed in plaster of paris and sank it in the East River. Mrs. Natch had helped Thorn to make up the bundles, and it was she who purchased the wrapping material. Gotha's statement has been proven to be correct in many particulars, save that as to the disposition of the body.

FITS OR MISFITS?

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

The witness then identified the wrappings on the bundles. His statement that the portions of the body fitted one another exactly called out an objection from the defense, Howe stating that it was his purpose to show that they were misfits. The witness then proceeded to describe certain marks on the pieces of the body, peculiarities of the toes, scars and moles.

After testimony as to the photographing of the remains, counsel for the prosecution held a consultation, and then informed the court that they were not prepared to go any further today, as all their witnesses who had been summoned to attend today had been examined.

Judge Smith adjourned court until 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

TRACING THE CRIME.

Smart Work of New York Reporters Unravels the Mystery.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—One of the chief tasks of the prosecution in the Guldensuppe case will be to establish the dead man's identity. The head is still missing, but the body has been identified, and the mystery unraveled, thanks not to the police, but to the keen and smart work of New York newspaper reporters. Various semi-identifications were made when the remains were first found, but hour by hour the case seemed to grow more and more hopeless. Then a reporter got the idea that the man in life, judging from his hands, was a massacer or something of that kind, and he started to work out an identification on this basis. He visited the Murray Hill Turkish Baths on West Forty-second street to refresh himself after a hard day's search, and there he learned that one of the attendants, William Guldensuppe, had not been seen for a couple of days. The missing man, he was employed as a cleaner in the baths, and had a prominent tattooed mark on his breast.

Close inquiries elicited the information that Guldensuppe had disappeared Thursday night or early Friday morning, the very day upon which the murder was supposed to have been committed. Where did he live? Who were his friends? Had he a wife? Or was there a woman mixed up in his affairs? Lots and lots of questions might account for the committal of so terrible a deed. The reporter discovered that there was a woman named Mrs. Augusta Natch, who had absconded with her husband, Guldensuppe. Here was a clue. Might not the husband have had a hand in the bloody work?

Mrs. Natch lived on the second floor of No. 439 Ninth avenue, and thither the reporter went. Yes, she knew Guldensuppe, but she had not seen him for a few days. She was perfectly cool, but there was something about her which aroused the suspicions of her interrogator. He went back to the baths and had the attendants there, who knew Guldensuppe well, go with him to the morgue. These men had no difficulty in identifying the trunk and arms as those of Guldensuppe. They had known him for years, and had daily seen him stripped to his waist at his secret work in the baths. The trunk and arms, Guldensuppe had carried the tattoo marks, which would have been identification easy, but it was evident that Natch had been careful to prevent their serving such a purpose.

The reporter then hurried back to Mrs. Natch's house, where he found her preparing to go to the morgue. The woman was perfectly cool and answered all questions plausibly, but, as was discovered almost immediately, she was not telling the truth. She had helped to weave a network of damning evidence around her. Other reporters kept watch on the house, so that Natch might not get away from wherever she went, and then the story was given to the police, who were still floundering in the dark.

The first four witnesses were the boys who, while swimming in the East River, had found the upper portion of the severed trunk, and then followed the policemen who were called to the scene of the finding, and then in turn were followed by witnesses who testified to the bringing of that part of the body to the morgue.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—The official programme of the National League gathering moved rather slowly today. The board of directors of the league convened shortly after 12 o'clock and disposed of a few important appeals from players who had grievances, the points of the appeals in each instance being summarily disallowed and dismissed.

President Young was authorized to establish an office in the business section of Washington for the transaction of league business, and the Boston club was officially awarded the championship of 1927.

The National Board of Arbitration today got together to dispose of matters unfinished at last night's session. The most important subject before the board was a motion for a modification of the drafting clause of the national agreement. The petition as presented met with no opposition in the board, and it was decided that its provisions should be recommended to the National League for adoption.

The change in the drafting rule does not prevent the purchase of any minor league player by a National League club, through mutual agreement between the clubs interested. Transfers from the minor to the major league through purchase or trade can at any time be made as heretofore.

On the suggestion of J. T. Brush, an article to the drafting clause was also recommended to grant permission to the National League clubs to loan a player to the league club, with the understanding that the player can be recalled on thirty days' notice.

THE WORM TURNED.

Murphy Knocks Out Cassidy After Having Been Repeatedly Flogged.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The semi-annual meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Sound Money League was held here today. There were present President George E. Leighton of St. Louis, General Secretary E. V. Smalley, Henry Villard, Gustav H. Schwab, J. Kennedy Todd, H. E. Robinson, Edwin Burris Smith, J. C. Cowen, M. E. Ingalls, J. W. Norwood, W. C. Cornwell and Treasurer A. B. Hepburn.

General Secretary Smalley, in his report on the work of the league, said that there was lodged to its credit in a bank of Chicago a balance of $1000 over and above all expenditures. Treasurer Hepburn reported that the total amount in bank up to the present to the credit of the league was $10,383. A vote of $5000 to the league was passed, and the league was granted without dissent.

General Secretary Smalley read a communication received from M. C. George, vice-president of the league, who wrote that he was with the league in all the great questions relating to the currency and realized the necessity for aggressive action. The league, he said, had many places the league would find it homey comforted with financial ignorance and errors. On motion of Ingalls of Ohio, it was voted to appropriate $1000 to aid George in Oregon.

M. E. Ingalls of Cincinnati said: "The result of the recent campaign shows conclusively that the league is not a drift back to the Democracy and free silver."

On motion of H. P. Robinson of Chicago, it was resolved that a committee be appointed to receive and consider the report of the monetary commission, which was voted to appoint a meeting of the Executive Committee if it is considered necessary. That action be taken thereon.

A committee comprising Louis R. Enrich, Mr. Leighton, Secretary Smalley, Gustav H. Schwab and William C. Cornwell was appointed to prepare a declaration of the league's position on the effect that bimetalism is dead and that gold should be the standard of the country. A recess was then taken.

When the committee resumed its session, Louis R. Enrich of Colorado Springs, as chairman of one of the sub-committees, read the following address:

"The Executive Committee of the National Sound Money League, in behalf of its members throughout the United States, issued the following address:

"International bimetalism as a world possibility is a thing of the past. The international bimetallic commission appointed under the St. Louis pledge of the Republican party have made a declaration of the death of this policy. Those efforts have been futile. The commercial necessities of the world have demonstrated that a dual standard is commercially unprofitable and in this stage of civilization, impossible.

"The hour has arrived, it seems to us, when a national resolution on this fact is necessary. The situation demands a definite, clear, unequivocal declaration that international bimetalism is a dream of the past."

Since his arrest, Thorn, it is alleged, has made a confession, and the authorities in Long Island City discovered the compromising letter which he tried to swallow. The letter showed an intention on the part of both the man and woman to cheat the law by committing suicide. While they were confined in the Queens County Jail, it was impossible for them to communicate with each other, but since they were transferred to the Queens County Jail they decided that it was better to try the case in Queens county, as the murder is alleged to have been committed there, although the plot was concocted in New York.

Thorn, it is said, told a fellow-prisoner that he would have completed the deed, as he termed it, beyond the possibility of detection. Mr. Natch had not been too hurried about the disposition of the various portions of the body. On the other hand, it is said that Mrs. Natch, in a letter to her paramour, had told him that she talked too much. An instance of his talking capacity is given in a statement made by Frank E. Clarke, who was Thorn's cell-mate in the Tombs. According to Clarke, the alleged murderer having drunk some whisky supplied to Clarke medicinally, became so communicative as to tell him that he had thrown Guldensuppe's head, which has not yet been recovered, into the East River near the fishing boat of B. Schuyler, which, by the way, was burned to the water's edge a few weeks ago. Clarke's story is considered reliable, as it is said that the friend who disposed of the head is Thorn's brother-in-law, and he will be produced at the trial as a witness for the prosecution.

Duester at Crefeld, Germany, reports to the State Department a discovery made there which it is said revolutionizes the methods of illumination. It is an incandescent gas. A single jet of ordinary size can emit a light of much more than 1000-candle power, and fine print can be read at a distance of 100 feet. The inventor says the cost for a light of 1500-candle-power is only 4% cents an hour, while the half of an ordinary incandescent light of 400 candles costs 14 cents an hour.

The Times

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Young Glover, the lad who tried to murder Dr. Moore in order to secure $5 with which to placate a woman whom he had robbed is obviously a born criminal of the most dangerous type, a moral idiot. He has cunning and ordinary reasoning powers, but no sense of moral responsibility. He should be placed in a San Quentin safety deposit vault and the key should be sunk in the Pacific Ocean.

A San Bernardino constable caught a tartar when he tackled a wandering hobo and attempted to take him to jail. The hobo made a break for liberty, and when overhauled he put up a very pretty fight, but was finally overpowered. As soon as he was fairly landed in jail, more trouble began. The hobo inaugurated a regular Donnybrook Fair, smashed the nose of one of his fellow-prisoners and sailed into everything in sight. He was finally forced to succumb to superior numbers. This appears to be a new and interesting specimen of the genus hobo.

A correspondent of The Times who has recently inspected the groves of several orange-producing towns is inclined to think the estimate of 12,000 carloads as the yield for the season just opening is rather conservative. If each town is allowed to estimate its own crop, he declares, the yield must be taken as nearer 14,000 carloads. Riverside will jump from a yield of 2600 cars last year to 4000 the coming season. Redlands will increase from 700 to 1200. Ontario will increase 75 per cent. and the San Gabriel Valley expects to show an increase of 100 per cent. There is not an orange section that is figuring on less than 50 per cent. increase. The indications are that Southern California will receive something like $6,000,000 for its oranges the coming season.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Still the Cry of the Merchants and Manufacturers.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association on yesterday noon the attention of the board was called to the fact that many needed improvements could be made when the repaving of Spring and Main streets is undertaken. At the present time these two streets are provided with only one fire hydrant at the corner of each block, and it was conceded that insufficient fire protection was afforded to merchants who carry millions of dollars' worth of stock and to owners of the most valuable property in the city. The secretary was instructed to bring this matter to the notice of the Board of Fire Commissioners and request that adequate fire protection be given and that the blocks on Spring and Main streets between Temple and Fifth be provided with six fire hydrants, three on each side of the street; and from Fifth to Ninth with four hydrants in each block.

As it has been stated that the street-car companies intend to lay heavier rails on Spring street, the secretary was instructed to request the companies to inaugurate their improvements at the time the repaving takes place, so that all the work can be done at the same time and the streets be placed in proper condition for years to come. It was also suggested that instead of closing up the streets when the repaving takes place, only one-half of the streets be paved at one time, in order to leave the other half open for traffic. The Exhibition Committee presented a report recommending that a grand opening of the permanent exhibition be held on the evening of January 15 for the members and their friends; and that an industrial parade take place on the afternoon of January 22. The railroad companies have agreed to grant excursion rates of one and one-third fare for the round trip from all cities in Southern California to Los Angeles, good from Saturday to and including the following Monday.

The secretary was instructed to send notices of the proposed parade to merchants and manufacturers and inquire whether or not they will participate. The following new members were elected: C. G. Baldwin, Paraffine Paint Company; L. A. Cheney, Manufacturing Company; John Zens, agent; San Diego Brewing Company, George C. Deming; Akron Furniture Company, E. Fleurs; M. Esterhauz & Co.; Polindexter & Wadsworth; Schroeder Bros.; A. Vignolo.

CHINESE CIVIL SERVICE.

Few Hours, Little Work and Numerous Vacations.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.] WASHINGTON, Nov. 3, 1897.—The Civil Service Commission has issued an interesting paper on the subject of the civil service system in China.

An official day's work in a Chinese public office is about five hours. The employees are not on duty every day. They are divided into squads and present themselves for duty on alternate days.

According to another system very common in China an employé reports for duty on those days of the month which contain a certain number. For example, one squad will be required to present itself for duty on the "three-eight" days, that is, on the 3d, 8th, 13th, 18th, 23d, and 28th. Another squad will be required to work on the "four-six" days, etc.

In the departments of revenue, war, public works and punishments, the working day begins about 11 o'clock and continues till 4 or 5. In the tamen of the inner court, work begins immediately after the morning audience with the Emperor, which is held at 3 a.m., and continues till 8 or 9. In the departments, there is a "department lock" who supplies food to those on duty, so that no interval for lunch is allowed. No regulation exists for holidays, they being applied for in individual instances, and when granted, pay is allowed during them. There are no Saturday or Sunday holidays in China. There is one month's vacation at the Chinese New Year, one day on the fifth day of the fifth moon, and on the fifteenth day of the eighth moon. The annual vacation of one month is from the 20th of the last moon to the 20th of the first moon, and during this all public offices are closed. Pay continues during the vacation. Employés are paid quarterly, their pay being partly in silver and partly in rice.

A MORAL IDIOT.

WILFRED S. GLOVER'S EXCUSE FOR ATTEMPTING MURDER.

The Youthful Criminal Thinks His Punishment Should Be Light Because He Is Under Age—Remarkable Callousness of Dr. Moore's Would-be Slayer.

Wilfred S. Glover, the red-headed Glendale youth, a boy in years but man in stature, who tried to kill Dr. Paul G. Moore of this city last Saturday for the purpose of robbery, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday for assault to commit murder. Attorney Hugh Crawford volunteered to act as counsel for the lad, and the preliminary examination was set for Monday, November 15.

After this brief formally young Glover was led back to his cell in the City Jail, where a Times reporter found him a little while after, apparently the least concerned inmate of the prison. The boy was comfortably swinging in a hammock when approached for an interview, and appeared entirely oblivious of being in a serious predicament. He seemed to entertain the idea that he could not be held accountable for his crime because of his youth.

"You see they couldn't do much with me if I had killed him, because I was under age," said he in answer to the question whether he had not anticipated arrest, and whether he would not have tried to leave the country if he had known the detectives were after him.

"Yes, I am sorry I did it," he continued, in reply to further questions. "I told my folks that a man had shot himself accidentally that evening, and I didn't sleep very much that night because I was afraid it would be found out that Dr. Moore did not shoot himself and that it would be blamed on me. I was in bed reading when the detectives came. I wasn't scared or excited, but when Detective Bradish asked where the revolver was I shot Dr. Moore with it. I thought I would better own up that I did the shooting, but make out that it was accidental. I told them a story about the revolver going off, but they knew at once that I lied, because the way I described it, the course of the bullet would have been upward. If I had stopped to think I would have known that the bullet went down."

"It's not true that I took the doctor and his brother into the brush on purpose to shoot one of them. I was in earnest when I said I could show them some rabbits to shoot. It was their own plan to separate and go in opposite directions. The notion to kill the doctor and get his money popped into my head suddenly. I picked him out because he was better dressed than his brother and looked like a man who would be apt to have lots of money in his pocket. I thought it would be easy to shoot him dead when we were alone, and get his money. I would have done it all right, if he hadn't stepped in a low place and ducked his head a little just as I pulled the trigger. That threw my aim off a little and the bullet didn't hit the right spot. It knocked him down though, and at first he was stunned. I thought he was dead, and put my revolver in my pocket, but before I had time to feel for his money he came to. His gun, with both hammers cocked, was beside him, and I didn't think it was safe to take any more chances with him. He was too much alive yet to do anything with, so I thought it would be best for me to go home."

"Why did I want his money? Well, in the first place I wanted to pay Mrs. Ritchey the rest of the $15 I stole from her. Mrs. Ritchey is a fumigator's wife and lives in the same house we do. I stole $15 from her, and she got a search warrant to search our rooms. When my mother found out that I stole and spent the money she promised to pay it back to Mrs. Ritchey if she wouldn't prosecute me. I have already paid back $10, and I thought I could get enough from Dr. Moore to pay the rest and have some left for myself."

"When George Moore sent me after the buggy I had a notion to get in and drive off, but I was afraid that would be a giveaway on me about the shooting, and I felt sure I would be caught and brought back. So I gave up that plan. It is not true that I stole the buggy robe and whip. They were lost out of the buggy. I found them and intended to return them to the owner. Although cautioned by his attorney not to talk too much, young Glover does not seem anxious to hold any thing back. He is not a vicious-looking boy; his mild blue eyes and frank manner of conversing are far from conveying the idea that the young fellow is a desperado. He appears to be entirely lacking in moral sense, however, and seems to regard his attempt on the life of Dr. Moore as a mere peccadillo, quite excusable on account of his youth."

Wilfred Glover was born in the southern part of Missouri in January, 1883, and therefore is not quite 15 years of age. He removed with his parents to Chautauqua, Kan., while still a mere infant. Thence the family came to Glendale, where Wilfred has been attending school and working for fruit ranchers around Glendale. He is fairly intelligent and was in the sixth grade at school. The revolver with which he attempted to murder Dr. Moore was purchased at a pawnshop in this city with the money stolen from Mrs. Ritchey.

Cornstalks for Battleships.

OWENSBORO (Ky.) Nov. 9.—A new industry started here today with 100 employes. It is to utilize corn stalks for cellulose for lining battleships. Material for making an imitation of silk and for making celluloid are among the products. Paper is another product. W. W. Gibbs of Philadelphia is president of the company, and the stockholders are easterners.

ARE YOU SUPERSTITIOUS?

A lady customer said yesterday: "I have traded with you folks now for over two years, and everything I have bought for my husband and the boys has turned out so well. Somehow we never seemed to have any luck with the underwear and socks we bought elsewhere. Going to the right place is a heap better than picking things up in out-of-line places—pays better too." We're closing out the Parry & Pepper stock just now—we can save you quite a little on each purchase—the stock carried by this firm was first-class, otherwise we would not have touched it. We'll expect you to call.

BUSINESS.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

Los Angeles, Nov. 9, 1897.

QUEER INSURANCE IDEAS. Almost everything that can be insured against nowadays, from lightning to burglary. In Los Angeles there is an agency of a burglary insurance company. The English companies have perhaps gone further in this direction than any others. The latest idea in that country is insurance against war. The premium is graded according to the supposed probability of war with various countries. Thus, the possibility of war between England and any of the three great European powers—Germany, France and Russia—is rated at 20 per cent. With the other European powers, except Turkey and the Transvaal, at 25 per cent., while insurance against war with any other power at all is obtained by a premium of 42 per cent.

COMMERCIAL.

BRANCHING OUT. It is not many years since most of the fruit products consumed in Los Angeles were imported from the coast of North. Now Southern California is beginning to do quite an extensive export business, not only in oranges and wheat, but in other products, that were formerly imported. The quantity of apples for home consumption. Evaporated apples are now being shipped east, an opening having been created by the short supply of apples from the coast. Butters is also being shipped to the North, which is another new departure.

Los Angeles is gradually "getting there," in a commercial way.

DUN'S REVIEW. Following is W. G. Dun & Co.'s monthly review of trade conditions in Southern California:

"Generally throughout the country October trade registered a decrease in volume. This naturally follows the rush of August and September to replenish stocks. These months showing the heaviest business in the country known. The manufacturing industries continued well employed and many mills went on the active list that have long been unemployed.

"The iron production is the largest ever known, which causes prices to yield a little, but the outlook is for higher quotations with the new year.

"Wheat has been unsteady in all markets and the early quotations for cotton were not sustained. The wool market was a surprise, the heavy importations just before the new tariff law went into effect did not produce the expected glut in the market and woolen goods remained firm.

"Foreign trade continues to show the balance in our favor.

"In our immediate district reports from the growing sugar crop are better. The early oranges are coloring well and good prices are offered for the holiday trade. The outlook for lemons is better than for the new year.

"The new crop of beans makes the market a little easier, but as the crop is reported 20 per cent. less than last year, and the demand is heavy, it is likely prices will not strike the down grade.

"The sugar campaign closes this year with 20,000,000 pounds of sugar to its credit.

"The yield in celery promises again to be heavy, probably 500 carloads.

"The dried fruit market remains almost at a standstill, a slight improvement is noted in prunes and apples.

"Nuts are moving well. The prices set by the market are generally held with the exception of 1/2 cent concession in soft-shell.

"Early rains injured raisins in the field, and the market is now likely to exceed, even if it equals in quantity that of last year.

"The pack of the canneries, which is the largest in the history of Southern California, has been mostly disposed of at good prices.

"Collections are better than for some years past. Real estate is not nearly so active. Our products are being marketed at good prices and the effect is already apparent. The coming tourist season will soon open, and the market for property in this year should greatly augment trade.

"Trade movement while quiet, is steady and confident of an unusually profitable winter season.

"Commercial casualties, lightest on record in the history of the city. In number, liabilities, $7300; assets, $2200; for same month last year, twelve, liabilities, $4000; assets, $15,000.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

REDLANDS AS A MANUFACTURING CENTER. Redlands is boasting over the fact that the cheapest electric power in the United States can be obtained there, and that the manufacturing industries there, to the low cost of power at that point, Redlands being almost at the source of supply, and the abundance of manufacturing industries will be justified there.

It may be that before many years Redlands will be a sort of a Pacific Coast Niagara Falls.

SARDINE CANNERY FOR REDONDO. Several parties ago an act was made to establish a sardine cannery at Redondo. The Redondo Railway company offered a site and other privileges, and the people subscribed $15 to the company.

There are plenty of sardines in the waters of Redondo, and such a factory as the Redondo sardine cannery seems to be no reason why the Redondo people should not organize to establish a similar industry in that town.

"Your No. 5 belt has performed a complete cure in my case in an amazingly short time. I was an old sufferer from indigestion, nervousness and sleeplessness and consequently had tried many supposed remedies, both medicine and electric belts. After spending a great deal of money looking for a cure, I at last tried your belt. I had no idea of getting a cure from its use, but found that after using it for about forty times that I was entirely cured. I am now as well as I was before I was afflicted with these troubles. I am a skeptic, but I am now a believer in the power of your belt. I would be pleased to verify this statement at any time."—J. Goldtree, Tucson, Ariz.

SAMARITAN MISSION.

Will be Conducted by the Salvation Army.

The Good Samaritan Mission, which was conducted last winter by Capt. Frazier, and proved to be a practical solution of the difficult problem of caring temporarily for the unemployed, has been turned over to the Salvation Army, which has leased the building for a term of years, and will continue the work along the line laid down by Capt. Frazier. During the fifteen months of Capt. Frazier's management the mission furnished lodgings for 69,964 persons, and gave out 25,600 meals. Free beds were given to 15,568 applicants. Bread and coal were supplied in large quantities to needy families in the city. It is understood that the Salvation Army will not furnish free lodgings, but will make a small charge in all cases. It is not expected that there will be any recurrence of the conditions that made it necessary last year to supply lodgings and meals without charge, and the confirmed tramp will find no encouragement to idleness in the Samaritan Mission.

Capt. Frazier intends to devote his time to relieving the distress of resident families instead of the recalcitrant hobo, and to that end is securing subscriptions to a monthly fund to pay the expense of collecting and distributing it where it may be needed. He is meeting with encouragement, and only one of the large hotels has refused to give its kitchen waste food to the captain for distribution. One hotel-keeper prefers to throw the food away.

Scientists at the High School.

The directors of the Southern California Academy of Sciences were the guests of Prof. Foshay Tuesday afternoon at the High School for several hours, inspecting a new collection of biological apparatus and the laboratory, which is the best equipped in the Southwest. Prof. Leslie and a number of the students made a number of practical exhibits of their apparatus and a new biological lantern that is one of the most interesting features of the department of sciences.

It is said that the Los Angeles High School is the best-equipped in the State. The number of scholars enrolled is 1200.

NO HITCH YESTERDAY.

NEW ORDINANCE PRODUCES GOOD RESULTS AFTER ALL.

Cleaner Streets, Less Obstruction, and Better Feeling—Only Two Drivers Forgot the Law—Merchants Adjusting Their Business to the New Conditions.

There were only two arrests for violating the new hitching ordinance yesterday. John Hart forgot himself yesterday morning and hitched on Spring street. Officer Fowler hitched on to him and conducted him to the Police Station. The prisoner was released on his own recognizance, after being duly registered. Jasper Hetrick thought the prohibited district did not extend farther north than the Temple Block on North Main street, so he felt perfectly safe in tying his horse in front of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank. He learned better when Officer Craig came and took possession of him and the rig. Hetrick was also released on his own recognizance.

The ordinance was not so much out of favor with merchants yesterday as it was on Monday. The improvement in the condition of the streets was so obvious that many who had sprained their hind legs by kicking began to look at the different view of the matter and concluded that a little temporary inconvenience might be endured for the public good. Merchants found that it was no hardship to be obliged to hire boys to accompany their drivers when delivering goods in the business district, and the boys were glad to get employment. Those merchants said they would hire boys, put them in uniform and station them in front of their stores to hold the horses of the worst of it, began to swing into line, and the proprietor of one laundry refused to sign a petition for the repeal of the ordinance and declared that he was for the enforcement of the law.

Chief Glass stuck to his original position that the ordinance should be enforced without fear or favor. He argued that the merchants would remember and respect it. The kickers would cease kicking, and when the business district got itself adjusted to the new condition, the improvement would be recognized by all. The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association is satisfied with the operation of the law and will make no effort to procure amendment or modification. Councilman Grider, who voted against the ordinance, said yesterday that he could not vote to repeal it. He was in favor of giving the law a fair trial and watching the results, and if any defects should appear in the course of the law, he would vote to repeal it. The improved condition of the streets was not only apparent to citizens yesterday, but also to the work of the sweepers. Heretofore the men who sweep the gutters of paved streets have been obliged to work until late in the afternoon. Yesterday their work was done early in the day.

SAVED BY HIS WIFE.

Mr. Smith Narrowly Escaped Death by Asphyxiation.

John Smith, who lives with his wife at the Brotherton, No. 315½ West Third street, took a bath last night. His wife became anxious after the elapse of considerable time and knocked at the door. She received no reply. When the door was subsequently broken open at the woman's request, Smith was found lying in the bath, unconscious. An open gas valve from which the gas was escaping readily explained the cause of his condition, and with the application of proper treatment Mr. Smith was soon resuscitated.

WHEN all other remedies fail to cure dandruff, stop itching scalp, etc., make a hair grow, use Smith's Dandruff Pomade for results.
